

WESTERN FRONT BATTLE BOUND TO GO TO CONCLUSIVE FINISH IS BELIEF OF OBSERVERS

NOT CONTENT TO STOP THE HUN'S DRIVE

FRENCH SUFFER A LOSS BUT ALLIES HOLD THE LINE

BERLIN PEEVED

British soldiers and officers do not believe the present comparative lull means the great western front battle will die out according to United Press dispatches from Wm. Phillip Simms this afternoon. On the contrary they believe it will go to a finish—and will conclude the battle and probably the war. This may be regarded as one of the most significant things in today's news. It shows that the British won't be content merely to stop the German advance. They want to make this the final round of the war and the "knock-out" which Premier Lloyd George declared must terminate the struggle.

The capture of Montdidier admitted by the French press came as a surprise today as it was believed the Germans were being held at practically all points.

Montdidier is 15 miles west and south of Roye and the French retirement to the west of Montdidier it was believed the fighting in that vicinity had progressed not more than three or four miles west of Roye.

Haig's official report today not only showed the British holding the enemy in the Somme region but declared that German prisoners and machine guns had been taken. Both north of Albert and south of Arras both Haig and Simms declared there was increasing enemy activity. Henry Wood who is now with that portion of the French army holding the Oise line declared the French are making a remarkable defense and daily increasing the difficulty for Hindenburg's left flank to move forward. Berlin news appears according to Amsterdam dispatches are all expressing worry over the increasing difficulty of Hindenburg's progress on the west front. Sims intimated that Hindenburg himself was worrying.

DUNKIRK BOMBED

Paris, March 28.—Dunkirk has been under enemy bombardment by long range guns for some days it was announced today. There has been but few injuries and only slight material damage.

Dunkirk is in France on the English channel 20 miles west of the nearest point in the German line. The city has been under bombardment before.

A HOTCHKISS JOINS THE MARINES

New York, March 28.—Fred Hotchkiss, grand nephew of the inventor of the Hotchkiss gun, a weapon that was adopted by the United States Marines during the Civil War, enlisted in the Marine Corps here today. Young Hotchkiss, who has two brothers in the service, came all the way from Alaska to enlist.

His distinguished uncle, Benjamin Berkely Hotchkiss, born in Watertown, Conn., in 1826, was one of the first to adopt the principle of using explosive gas developed by firing to assist the operation of rapid-fire guns. All modern machine guns now employ this principle.

Many of the inventor's improvements in projectiles and heavy ordnance were accepted by the American Government and are now in use. Hotchkiss afterward went to Paris where he established a gun factory. He died there in 1885.

The British Postoffice department has issued six million gallons of gum a year for the making of postage stamps.

A WASHINGTON VIEW

Washington, March 28.—The Allies have a mobile army of 800,000 men ready to strike at the faltering Germans—the time for the stroke is here, a high American army officer stated today. It is possible that 100,000 American troops are available for this huge maneuver force against the Teutons, he added.

LACK OF ORDERS DUE TO THE WAR STOPS GLASS PLANT

Emil Kupfer of the Kupfer Glass factory announced today that the war has curtailed the demand for cut glass to such an extent that it will be necessary to close down the plant and that the outlook for the trade is such that he contemplates selling the building and junking the equipment.

Mr. Kupfer located in Clearfield about six years ago and his plant has been a great success employing a large number of young men, boys and girls whose wages contributed materially to the prosperity of the city or Clearfield and the people of the city will indeed be sorry to see the plant closed and lost to the city. It is unfortunate that the exigencies of war have brought about a condition which of course means a large financial loss to Mr. Kupfer who takes his loss stoically and with that spirit which was manifested in his determination to establish the plant here at the beginning.

War conditions have been making steady inroads on the glass business. At one time the Kupfer plant employed 140 hands. Our declaration of war on Germany found the plant employing near one hundred hands and this number has steadily decreased until the last three or four weeks only forty or so are working. A few days will wind up all the orders there are on hand and Mr. Kupfer is offering the building and some of his equipment for sale as will be seen in an advertisement in another column.

Until the coming conference which will be held in about six weeks the Woodland charge will be taken care of by Rev. B. J. Hummel of Clearfield at which time a new man will be assigned.

Rev. Groh announces farewell sermons as follows: Woodland Sunday evening at 7:30. Salem at 10:30 a. m. Spring Valley at 2:30 p. m. and Pleasant Valley on Tuesday evening.

LOSES HAND IN BRICK MACHINE

Harry Overdorf, aged 19 years, whose home was formerly in or near Lock Haven, lost his left hand in an accident which occurred at the Wallacetown brickworks about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The young man was working about a steam brick making machine when he met with the accident which maimed him for life. The plunger or piston operated down through the center of the machine extending into a cylinder or hole in the concrete foundation. Dirt would occasionally gather in this cylinder and interfere with the stroke of the plunger. When this occurred yesterday morning Overdorf stopped the machine and getting under it proceeded to clean out the hole. He neglected to lock the machine which would turn over it not stopped on dead center, with the result that when he reached in to remove the dirt the plunger descended and catching his arm at the wrist, nipped the hand off as though with an axe.

The leaders were torn from the arm to the elbow, making a terrible injury.

Dr. Woodside was quickly summoned and rushed the young man to the Clearfield hospital where the injured arm was attended to and where he is now getting along finely considering the nature of his injury.

San Francisco, March 28.—Viscount Motono, Japanese minister of foreign affairs had handed his resignation to Premier Teruchi according to a cablegram received today by a Japanese newspaper here. Motono was the leading advocate of Japanese intervention in Siberia and his reported resignation may be due to the decision of the government not to carry out his plans. Baron Uchida, former Japanese ambassador to Petrograd, was indicated in the cablegram as Motono's probable successor.

MINERS TO MEET AGAIN AT DUBOIS ON APRIL 4TH

At the time the district convention of the United Mine Workers adjourned in DuBois it was with the understanding that it would be reconvened at the call of the Policy Committee. The Policy committee has sent a subcommittee to Washington for the purpose of conferring with Administrator Garfield and to investigate the production sheets of the coal companies, if possible, to ascertain if they are producing coal at such a close margin as they claim, in refusing to meet the Policy Committee. No definite word has been received from this committee, but Secretary-Treasurer Richard Gilbert has issued a call for the special convention to convene in DuBois on Thursday morning, April 4 at 10 o'clock. This is a reconvening of the bi-ennial convention and the notice states that the delegates in attendance at the previous convention are eligible for this coming gathering.

The subcommittee appointed by the policy committee of District No. 2 U. M. W. of A. to go to Washington and investigate figures on the cost of coal production in this region, is now in the national capital.

The committeemen left for Washington on Sunday, but no word has yet been received from them at the union headquarters in Clearfield. Whether they have succeeded in gaining access to the cost figures in the government's files is not known while the date of their return is also uncertain.

The sub-committee was appointed when the policy committee, meeting to decide the next step in the wage increase demand after the operators refused to confer with them, found letters from Administrator Garfield and President Hayes saying that the 60 per cent. increase in the price of coal on which the wage demand was based was necessary unless the operators were to run at a loss.

POET FAILED TO LAND

Buffalo, N. Y., March 25.—A tidal wave of poetic verse threatened to swamp the recruiting office of the U. S. Marine corps here, recently, when Burt Gibbs, of nowhere in particular, entered the office and burst out: "My country calls, I wish to fight. Pray tell me, sir am I in right?"

His auditors were staggered and one braver than the rest led the poetic Gibbs, till chattering, into the office of the officer in charge. Gibbs effected a lordly bow and swept his hat to the floor:

"I've come to fight to clear the sea, To make it safe for Democracy."

This was followed with: "Prithce, kind sir, I'm known to fame. Think and reflect, Gibbs is my name."

Burt Gibbs may gain poetical but never military fame. He was rejected as physically unfit.

Elsie Durkin of New York city, an architect and engineer of great ability, has built numerous churches, theatres, railroad bridges, tunnels and skyscrapers.

LOCAL SCHOOLS ARRANGE FOR GARDENS

Prof. Ross Now Busy Laying Plans To Carry Out Wishes Of Government For Crops

EVERY SCHOOL PATRON BOOST

The Clearfield schools are arranging to conduct systematic home gardens the coming summer and in order to ascertain the wishes of the parents in the matter and determine the number of students who will participate circulars embodying the plan are in course of preparation setting forth the aims and objects of the plan, together with a registration or enrollment blank which provides for the consent of the parent.

It is a worthy and very necessary departure and should have the enthusiastic support of everybody. Food will win the war and this movement means greatly increased production in Clearfield.

Last year community garden plots were conducted under the direction of Prof. Ross, principal of the Junior High school, who will again be in charge this year, and resulted in the raising of additional crops to the value of $735. This amount can be safely counted a surplus crop, as it would have been lost to the consumers had the movement not been undertaken.

To give you an idea of what this amounted to we append the garden superintendent's report of last year's work:

Three different lots of ground were secured. Two in East End and one on the West Side.

The plots in East End were donated by Mrs. Smith Wilson and George DeWalt. Both were open to the commons and were pretty thoroughly packed. On these two were seventy five separate gardens.

The plot on the West Side was rented from the Whitehill estate and contained one hundred and twenty gardens.

The gardens were of different sizes. One hundred of them were twenty feet square and ninety-five were twenty by sixteen.

Three loads of manure and one day's work with a team were donated by the patrons.

An exhibit was made at the county fair.

Following is a list of products:

ATTENTION FARMERS

Washington, March 28.—Following charges that German farmers in this country are holding wheat the food administration today set May 1 to May 15 as the days upon which all residue wheat should be marketed. Southern and middle Atlantic state farmers are urged to sell their wheat with the exception of food requirements by May 1 and northern state farmers by May 15.

The honor of discovering ice cream soda is generally given to Robert M. Green, who served the delicacy at a semi-centennial celebration of Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, in the summer of 1874, and advertised it at that time as something absolutely new.

FRENCH ARMY BLOCKS PLAN OF TEUTONS

THINK HINDENBURG ANNOUNCEMENT MERE BLIND

POILUS HOLD LINE

By Henry Wood
United Press Staff Correspondent
With the French Army between Chauny and Noyon, March 28.—Commanded by two of her most brilliant generals, the French are blocking the German's progress between Noyon and Nesle, where the enemy is seeking to force his way between the narrow Oise valley to turn the outer French wing. Other enemy forces in the north are seeking to throw the British forces back to the North Sea, aiming thus to crush both Allied armies. Hindenburg's announcement aim to capture Amiens is considered a blind move.

The Germans appear to have arranged to send Amiens to the "gates" of the French front line. The vision thus revealed has been chosen the full move for the offensive as they could bombard the communication lines at Amiens. Columns are steadily arriving and lines of infantry constantly being sent up to the battle front where they go into action with machine guns and tanks; the result of nearly four years of warfare. After taking over a glass of the British lines the French are solidly holding the ground on the line between Tergnier and Noyon, fighting with a spirit unequalled since the battle of the Marne. Never since the war began have I seen such calm confidence. The Poilus, convinced the Germans are playing their last card, are performing individual miracles.

London, March 28.—Repeated enemy attacks in the Somme valley and also in the neighborhood of Pameux, Am Mont-Hamel and Noyonville were repulsed, Field Marshal Haig reported today.

"We captured prisoners and machine guns. Fierce fighting is under way on both banks of the Somme. There was heavy bombardment east of Arras this morning, and an attack is developing. Astride the Somme yesterday evening and last night there was severe fighting and also north of Albert and Puyelle. Au Mont-Hamel is 6 miles north of Albert on the west bank of the Ancre. Puyelle is 3 miles north of Au Mont-Hamel, and Noyonville is 5 miles due south of Arras and about 20 miles northeast of Albert.

MONTEDIDIER

Paris, March 28.—Abandonment of Montedidier was officially admitted by the French war office today. In the reign of Montedidier important German attacks were launched. After the bitter fighting we retired in order to west of Montedidier.

CHIEF PACIFIST FORD IS NOW BUSY MAN TURNING OUT IMPLEMENTS OF WAR

Former Chief Pacifist Henry Ford has developed into one of the War God's most energetic helpers and is getting ready to turn out in real old-fashioned Ford style a couple of instruments which bid fair to be big factors in winning the war for democracy. The first and most-talked of Ford product is the U-Boat chaser, named by Secretary Daniels "The Eagle."

The Eagle is one of two particular fighting devices which are so engrossing Mr. Ford's attention at present that he is working harder and putting in longer hours than any of the 10,000 employees of his concern.

Have U-Boat Detectors
Without going too deeply into details as to the construction of these boats, it is permissible to say that they are 200 feet long, 25-1-2 feet wide, draw eight feet of water, carry submarine detectors that can spot the enemy's U-boats more than a mile away, have devices for dropping depth bombs and are expected to do great execution.

Yet they are to be turned out (big as they are) in the same standardized, systematized fashion as the little pleasure cars which made Mr. Ford's name known throughout the world. He has described one of the buildings along the Rouge river, at Detroit, where the Eagles are now under construction.

"This is 300 feet wide and 1,800 feet long," Mr. Ford said. "It has three sets of rails, along which the Eagles progress from the beginning of their assembling until they are complete. At the end of the tracks they take to the water, and by that time they are a finished product, fully equipped, armed and supplied—and with their crews aboard."

"It would be possible for an Eagle to leave this building, go through the Rouge River, the Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence, and right across the sea into action, without a halt."

There is a naval cantonment capable of housing 2,000 men at a time adjoining this destroyer plant, which will supply crews as needed, and these crews will be composed of men who have seen the whole operation of building the Eagle and who will know every detail of its construction.

Already a completed Eagle stands in the Detroit shop, finished, even to her wireless masts. She is a model, to give the workmen an idea of what they are building. She should take the water now. But it will be only a brief number of weeks before a steady over-ocean stream of Eagles heads for Europe.

"We have orders for 100 of these boats, but we're prepared to build 1,000 if they are needed," Mr. Ford said. "Construction will go on at Rouge River until the weather is too cold next fall, and by that time the plant in the Jersey meadows will be in operation."

The Two-Man Tank
Mr. Ford's other pet war machine is the "two-man tank." This is not his own idea he wants it understood. It was the conception of army men, just as the Eagle was the outgrowth of navy ideas. But he has built one of the small tanks for experimental purposes and he knows what it will do.

"The simplest thing possible!" he says enthusiastically. "It's merely a little affair of sheet steel, armored, plated, with two or our ordinary 20-horsepower motors, driving truck worm-gears, with caterpillar traction. "These little tanks could turn with in their own length, could dart here and there along the fighting line almost as fast as an unprotected soldier. One man could handle the machine, the other fellow man the guns. I have arranged for a permanent supply of chemicals within the tank for a protection against gas should the enemy employ that, and the little tanks, therefore, could go anywhere."

"Suppose they did strike a party of them in the rear," said the others over top of them. "If we had 50-horsepower, I think those little tanks could climb any French side, almost to the perpendicular."

"I don't believe they'd cost more than $1,500 apiece, and they'd save the lives of thousands of soldiers. The British have said their big tanks were each equal to 500 men. Each little tank, I believe, would be equal of 150 soldiers. To fight with machines and save lives is the proper modern system of warfare, in my opinion."

So far as Mr. Ford knows, there has not yet been any provision made in the American army's fighting scheme for these tiny tanks. But if they should be wanted he'd like nothing better than the job of turning them out. And they could be produced almost as rapidly as pleasure cars, he thinks.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIER BOYS

Mr. and Mrs. B. Harris of Ogden avenue have received the following letter from their son "somewhere in France."

Feb. 15, 1918,
Somewhere in France.

Dear Parents:

This is to let you know that I received your kind and welcome letter and was very glad to hear that you are all well. As I was away from my company for a few days I was a little delayed in answering. I am in the best of health.

I have only received one of the four parcels you sent me but I think the others will arrive before long.

Is Abe in the infantry or artillery? I hope he come to France and if he does I will surely look him up.

The weather over here is splendid and I hope it keeps up. How is the weather around home? I suppose it is as cold as usual at this time of the year.

Well that's about all I have to write at present so I'll close with regards to everyone.

Your son,

SAM HARRIS,

GET INQUIRY ABOUT GEORGE DERRICK

Chief Clerk John M. Bain of the local Exemption board received a letter of inquiry from Fred W. Tepel chief of police of Williamsport, regarding one George Derrick aged 25 years, who was arrested at Williamsport charged with making seditious and un-American remarks.

Derrick, when taken to the police station, said his home was on Spruce street, Clearfield, that he had torn up his questionnaire when sent him and wouldn't respond to any order sent him.

Chief Tepel said Derrick had a still leg which he said was caused by being run over by a horse truck in Clearfield.

An examination of the Exemption Board's records show that Derrick was examined here last month and has been accepted for military service and this information was sent to the Williamsport Chief of Police.

A boy scout courteously asked a woman worker in a Kansas City, Mo., office if she would buy a Liberty bond.

"I have already bought about as many as I can afford," said she. "Still, you are the first boy scout who has asked me to buy, and I owe something to the boy scouts."

"Would you mind telling me why you say that?" asked the boy. "I would like to tell my scoutmaster."

"Three years ago," said the woman, "I didn't have a regular job, and neither did my husband. I used to go to the market Saturday nights to take advantage of the reduced prices in vegetables. One night I bought a good many and was struggling under the load when a boy in khaki uniform insisted on taking the heavier bundles. 'This is our work, you know,' he said proudly to me."

"I could only thank him, but I never forgot," said the woman, "and today I feel I must buy one more bond to help save America for such citizens as these boy scouts are going to be."

MORE EAGLE SCOUTS IN TEXAS.

San Antonio now has four Eagle scouts, and this noteworthy achievement was reached when the court of honor completed tests that qualified three scouts as Eagle scouts.

Lewis Kayton, who is in the first Eagle scout in San Antonio, was presented with his badge in the summer. The three new Eagle scouts are Charles Henning, Zay Smith and Sel, don Nye.

The court of honor compels each test to be thorough in every way, and it has taken weeks and months of hard work for the scouts to attain this honor.

In order to get the Eagle badge, a scout must take 21 merit badge examinations and several of these take months of preparation. The Eagle scouts won these honors only by the hardest work and by deep study and practice.

SCOUTS ASK FLAG RESPECT.

The San Francisco Ad club, with the co-operation of the San Francisco Boy Scouts of America, has launched a movement to make expressions of respect to the American flag more general in that city, particularly on public occasions.

According to President Samuel P. Johnson of the club, some men fail to remove their hats when the flag passes in a public parade.

Asked by the club for assistance, the boy scouts promised to conduct a campaign to ask men to doff their hats when the national banner passes. At the next parade to be held in that city the boy scouts are to march in advance, distributing cards asking men to do this reverence to the flag.

GOOD TURNS BY SCOUTS.

A Cory, Pa., scout, named Harold MacLusens, saved the life of a little boy who had severed a large artery. Scouts in McBain, Mich., gave first aid in a gasoline explosion when two men were badly injured and no physician was to be had.

Boy scouts in Buffalo are proud of one patrol that is expert in signaling. The patrol is equipped with electric and oil flash lanterns, field buzzers, telegraph instruments, flags, etc.

MODERN PROBLEMS CLUB MEETING

The Modern Problems club held a meeting in the history room of the high school building Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The minutes of the last meeting were read after which the president introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Frank G. Harris.

Mr. Harris opened his address by congratulating the club on having our educational facilities and told us he would tell us of the "Underground Railroads."

First we had explained to us the reason for underground railroads. The fact that the traffic in the large cities became so congested that it was not safe; some means had to be found to correct this trouble and so underground railroads were built in the large cities of Boston, New York, Baltimore, Paris and many others.

Mr. Harris divided the railroads into three divisions:

1. Subways.
2. Tunnels.
3. Under the river road.

For example New York was taken. Six parts of Broadway there are five railways, one on top of the other. The Pennsylvania railroad has a line that runs under New York city up to Boston. This is a great convenience for it saves having to be ferried across the rivers and changing cars at New York. Some rivers however, cannot have either underground roads or bridges; the Mississippi for example, because the ground at the banks and on the bottom of the river is so soft it cannot support the works.

Tunnels we are told are as old as history. The ancient Egyptians had them thru the ground to the burial places of their Pharaohs. Some of the larger tunnels of modern times are at Cleveland, Chicago, Pittsburgh and several very wonderful ones in Europe. Compressed air is used in these tunnels and snow sheds to protect the roads from the land slides.

After telling us these interesting facts with many more we could not mention, Mr. Harris closed his talk, which was one of the most interesting addresses given to the club this winter.

The club wishes to thank Mr. Harris for his time and interest and we hope he comes to see us soon again.

HELVETIA STORE IS ROBBED ON TUESDAY NIGHT

The Mahoning Supply company store, Helvetia, sustained a large loss as the result of a robbery on Tuesday night, when thieves entered the store and made off with merchandise to the amount of over $500. Entrance to the building was made with the aid of a step ladder, through a second story window. The list of goods taken includes knives, cigars, razors, watches, shoes and clothing. There was no cash taken, the safe being locked, and the thieves were unable to open it. In taking inventory yesterday it was found that merchandise to the extent of over $500 had been taken. This makes the second robbery that this firm has suffered within the last two years.

Trains are again running on the Pittsburgh & Seneca Railroad, after a suspension of nearly six weeks following a strike of the trainmen and other employees of the company. Passenger trains resumed on Monday and the coal trains began operating today.

FAVOR PROPORTION WHEAT FOUR SUBSTITUTES PLANNED

Baking Regulations Effective April 14. Will require 25 per cent addition

Under the short supply of wheat, the Food Administration has planned to meet the demands of the country for bakery bread, the present proportion of wheat flour substitutes required in bread and rolls is to be increased. New baking regulations will require the use of at least 25 per cent of substitutes with wheat flour in commercial bread baking will go into effect April 14, the Food Administration announces, with a possibility that a still greater percentage of substitutes may be required later.

All bread and rolls now manufactured contain at least 20 per cent of wheat substitutes. This percentage was attained by gradual stages, finally becoming imperative on February
24. The time that will elapse before the new rate of substitution becomes effective will enable bakers to make the necessary experiments and work out new formulas and methods for producing victor bread.

New Easter Suits—New, Original & Distinctive, 19.75, 22.50, 25.00, 27.50, 35.00 up to 67.50

It isn't merely having garments that are stylish and becoming, but the added fact that they are man-tailored and designs of the higher type. Women today want their clothes to give full service. This being the case, it is certainly advisable to choose one of these suits now. As each suit is purchased, it is practically certain that that style will not again be duplicated.

The style is rather straight and possessing a certain military quality; fashioned of fresh light tweeds and fine French serges and other popular spring novelties. All lined with silk peau de cygne, some braid trimmed, others showing unique usage of buttons. You will find each NEW, ORIGINAL AND DISTINCTIVE.

A Really Unusual Showing of Silk Dresses at 15.00 to 55.00

Whether because of the war, the high price of cotton and the still higher price of wool, silk is to be so prime a favorite for Spring and Summer, is really immaterial.
The fact remains that there is a greater showing of beautiful silk dresses on our racks today than we thought would be possible to obtain for this season. The dresses are made of taffeta, georgette crepe, soft finished silks, silk ginghams, crepe de chine, and other materials, and it seems as though American designers have simply outdone themselves in the manipulation of materials and trimmings.

GLOVES—The New Shades

Whether in kid or silk or the washable skin gloves, you will find a complete collection of the newest colors now on hand. For this very reason, it is wisdom itself to make selection now rather than delaying even for a week or two.

Silk gloves priced at 75c to $1.50.

Washable cape gloves $2.00 to $3.25.

Chamoisette gloves at $1.00 pair.

What Pretty Neckwear!

We venture to say that when once you try on one of the new colored organdie sets, or escape having it wrapped up to take home with you for Easter Sunday. 50c to $3.00.

One waist which has attracted attention is of a taffeta silk and shows a striking and unique combination of sports colors, trimmed with small buttons of the same material.

WESTERN FRONT BATTLE BOUND TO GO TO CONCLUSIVE FINISH IS BELIEF OF OBSERVERS

NOT CONTENT TO STOP THE HUN'S DRIVE

FRENCH SUFFER A LOSS BUT ALLIES HOLD THE LINE

BERLIN PEEVED

British soldiers and officers do not believe the present comparative lull means the great western front battle will die out according to United Press dispatches from Wm. Phillip Simms this afternoon. On the contrary they believe it will go to a finish—and will conclude the battle and probably the war. This may be regarded as one of the most significant things in today's news. It shows that the British won't be content merely to stop the German advance. They want to make this the final round of the war and the "knock-out" which Premier Lloyd George declared must terminate the struggle.

The capture of Montdidier admitted by the French yesterday came as a surprise today as it was believed the Germans were being held at practically all points.

Montdidier is 15 miles west and south of Roye and the French retirement to the west of Montdidier it was believed the fighting in that vicinity had progressed not more than three or four miles west of Roye.

Haig's official report today not only showed the British holding the enemy in the Somme region but declared that German prisoners and machine guns had been taken. Both north of Albert and south of Arras both Haig and Simms declared there was increasing enemy activity. Henry Wood who is now with that portion of the French army holding the Oise line declared the French are making a remarkable defense and daily increasing the difficulty for Hindenburg's left flank to move forward. Berlin news appears according to Amsterdam dispatches are all expressing worry over the increasing difficulty of Hindenburg's progress on the west front. Sims intimated that Hindenburg himself was worrying.

DUNKIRK BOMBED

Paris, March 28.—Dunkirk has been under enemy bombardment by long range guns for some days it was announced today. There has been but few injuries and only slight material damage.

Dunkirk is in France on the English channel 20 miles west of the nearest point in the German line. The city has been under bombardment before.

A HOTCHKISS JOINS THE MARINES

New York, March 28.—Fred Hotchkiss, grand nephew of the inventor of the Hotchkiss gun, a weapon that was adopted by the United States Marines during the Civil War, enlisted in the Marine Corps here today. Young Hotchkiss, who has two brothers in the service, came all the way from Alaska to enlist.

His distinguished uncle, Benjamin Berkely Hotchkiss, born in Watertown, Conn., in 1826, was one of the first to adopt the principle of using explosive gas developed by firing to assist the operation of rapid-fire guns. All modern machine guns now employ this principle.

Many of the inventor's improvements in projectiles and heavy ordnance were accepted by the American Government and are now in use. Hotchkiss afterward went to Paris where he established a gun factory. He died there in 1885.

The British Postoffice department has issued six million gallons of gum a year for the making of postage stamps.

A WASHINGTON VIEW

Washington, March 28.—The Allies have a mobile army of 800,000 men ready to strike at the faltering Germans—the time for the stroke is here, a high American army officer stated today. It is possible that 100,000 American troops are available for this huge maneuver force against the Teutons, he added.

LACK OF ORDERS DUE TO THE WAR STOPS GLASS PLANT

Emil Kupfer of the Kupfer Glass factory announced today that the war has curtailed the demand for cut glass to such an extent that it will be necessary to close down the plant and that the outlook for the trade is such that he contemplates selling the building and junking the equipment.

Mr. Kupfer located in Clearfield about six years ago and his plant has been a great success employing a large number of young men, boys and girls whose wages contributed materially to the prosperity of the city or Clearfield and the people of the city will indeed be sorry to see the plant closed and lost to the city. It is unfortunate that the exigencies of war have brought about a condition which of course means a large financial loss to Mr. Kupfer who takes his loss stoically and with that spirit which was manifested in his determination to establish the plant here at the beginning.

War conditions have been making steady inroads on the glass business. At one time the Kupfer plant employed 140 hands. Our declaration of war on Germany found the plant employing near one hundred hands and this number has steadily decreased until the last three or four weeks only forty or so are working. A few days will wind up all the orders there are on hand and Mr. Kupfer is offering the building and some of his equipment for sale as will be seen in an advertisement in another column.

Until the coming conference which will be held in about six weeks the Woodland charge will be taken care of by Rev. B. J. Hummel of Clearfield at which time a new man will be assigned.

Rev. Groh announces farewell sermons as follows: Woodland Sunday evening at 7:30. Salem at 10:30 a. m. Spring Valley at 2:30 p. m. and Pleasant Valley on Tuesday evening.

LOSES HAND IN BRICK MACHINE

Harry Overdorf, aged 19 years, whose home was formerly in or near Lock Haven, lost his left hand in an accident which occurred at the Wallacetown brickworks about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The young man was working about a steam brick making machine when he met with the accident which maimed him for life. The plunger or piston operated down through the center of the machine extending into a cylinder or hole in the concrete foundation. Dirt would occasionally gather in this cylinder and interfere with the stroke of the plunger. When this occurred yesterday morning Overdorf stopped the machine and getting under it proceeded to clean out the hole. He neglected to lock the machine which would turn over it not stopped on dead center, with the result that when he reached in to remove the dirt the plunger descended and catching his arm at the wrist, nipped the hand off as though with an axe.

The leaders were torn from the arm to the elbow, making a terrible injury.

Dr. Woods was quickly summoned and rushed the young man to the Clearfield hospital where the injured arm was attended to and where he is now getting along finely considering the nature of his injury.

San Francisco, March 28.—Viscount Motono, Japanese minister of foreign affairs had handed his resignation to Premier Teruchi according to a cablegram received today by a Japanese newspaper here. Motono was the leading advocate of Japanese intervention in Siberia and his reported resignation may be due to the decision of the government not to carry out his plans. Baron Uchida, former Japanese ambassador to Petrograd, was indicated in the cablegram as Motono's probable successor.

MINERS TO MEET AGAIN AT DUBOIS ON APRIL 4TH

At the time the district convention of the United Mine Workers adjourned in DuBois it was with the understanding that it would be reconvened at the call of the Policy Committee. The Policy committee has sent a subcommittee to Washington for the purpose of conferring with Administrator Garfield and to investigate the production sheets of the coal companies, if possible, to ascertain if they are producing coal at such a close margin as they claim, in refusing to meet the Policy Committee. No definite word has been received from the committee, but Secretary-Treasurer Richard Gilbert has issued a call for the special convention to convene in DuBois on Thursday morning, April 4 at 10 o'clock. This is a reconvening of the bi-ennial convention and the notice states that the delegates in attendance at the previous convention are eligible for this coming gathering.

The subcommittee appointed by the policy committee of District No. 2 U. M. W. of A. to go to Washington and investigate figures on the cost of coal production in this region, is now in the national capital. The committeemen left for Washington on Sunday, but no word has yet been received from them at the union headquarters in Clearfield. Whether they have succeeded in gaining access to the cost figures in the government's files is not known while the date of their return is also uncertain.

The sub-committee was appointed when the policy committee, meeting to decide the next step in the wage increase demand after the operators refused to confer with them, found letters from Administrator Garfield and President Hayes saying that the 60 per cent. increase in the price of coal on which the wage demand was based was necessary unless the operators were to run at a loss.

POET FAILED TO LAND

Buffalo, N. Y., March 25.—A tidal wave of poetic verse threatened to swamp the recruiting office of the U. S. Marine corps here, recently, when Burt Gibbs, of nowhere in particular, entered the office and burst out: "My country calls, I wish to fight. Pray tell me, sir am I in right?"

His auditors were staggered and one braver than the rest led the poetic Gibbs, till chattering, into the office of the officer in charge. Gibbs effected a lordly bow and swept his hat to the floor:

"I've come to fight to clear the sea, To make it safe for Democracy." This was followed with: "Prithce, kind sir, I'm known to fame. Think and reflect, Gibbs is my name." Burt Gibbs may gain poetical but never military fame. He was rejected as physically unfit.

Elsie Durkin of New York city, an architect and engineer of great ability, has built numerous churches, theatres, railroad bridges, tunnels and skyscrapers.

LOCAL SCHOOLS ARRANGE FOR GARDENS

Prof. Ross Now Busy Laying Plans To Carry Out Wishes Of Government For Crops

EVERY SCHOOL PATRON BOOST

The Clearfield schools are arranging to conduct systematic home gardens the coming summer and in order to ascertain the wishes of the parents in the matter and determine the number of students who will participate circulars embodying the plan are in course of preparation setting forth the aims and objects of the plan, together with a registration or enrollment blank which provides for the consent of the parent.

It is a worthy and very necessary departure and should have the enthusiastic support of everybody. Food will win the war and this movement means greatly increased production in Clearfield.

Last year community garden plots were conducted under the direction of Prof. Ross, principal of the Junior High school, who will again be in charge this year, and resulted in the raising of additional crops to the value of $735. This amount can be safely counted a surplus crop, as it would have been lost to the consumers had the movement not been undertaken.

To give you an idea of what this amounted to we append the garden superintendent's report of last year's work:

Three different lots of ground were secured. Two in East End and one on the West Side.

The plots in East End were donated by Mrs. Smith Wilson and George DeWalt. Both were open to the commons and were pretty thoroughly packed. On these two were seventy five separate gardens.

The plot on the West Side was rented from the Whitehill estate and contained one hundred and twenty gardens.

The gardens were of different sizes. One hundred of them were twenty feet square and ninety-five were twenty by sixteen.

Three loads of manure and one day's work with a team were donated by the patrons.

An exhibit was made at the county fair.

Following is a list of products:

ATTENTION FARMERS

Washington, March 28.—Following charges that German farmers in this country are holding wheat the food administration today set May 1 to May 15 as the days upon which all residue wheat should be marketed. Southern and middle Atlantic state farmers are urged to sell their wheat with the exception of food requirements by May 1 and northern state farmers by May 15.

The honor of discovering ice cream soda is generally given to Robert M. Green, who served the delicacy at a semi-centennial celebration of Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, in the summer of 1874, and advertised it at that time as something absolutely new.

FRENCH ARMY BLOCKS PLAN OF TEUTONS

THINK HINDENBURG ANNOUNCEMENT MERE BLIND

POILUS HOLD LINE

By Henry Wood
United Press Staff Correspondent
With the French Army between Chauny and Noyon, March 28.—Commanded by two of her most brilliant generals, the French are blocking the German's progress between Noyon and Nesle, where the enemy is seeking to force his way between the narrow Oise valley to turn the outer French wing. Other enemy forces in the north are seeking to throw the British forces back to the North Sea, aiming thus to crush both Allied armies. Hindenburg's announcement that he had captured Amiens is considered a blind move.

The Germans' blind move appears to have arranged to send Amiens into the hands of the French. French front line: The French vision thus revealed has been choosing the full move for the offensive as they could bombard the communication lines at strategic points. Columns are steadily arriving at the lines of infantry constantly being sent up to the battle front where they go into action with machine guns and tanks; the result of nearly four years of warfare. After taking over a glass of the British lines the French are solidly holding the ground on the line between Tergnier and Noyon, fighting with a spirit unequalled since the battle of the Marne. Never since the war began have I seen such calm confidence. The Poilus, convinced the Germans are playing their last card, are performing individual miracles.

London, March 28.—Repeated enemy attacks in the Somme valley and also in the neighborhood of Pameux, Am Mont-Hamel and Noyonville were repulsed, Field Marshal Haig reported today.

"We captured prisoners and machine guns. Fierce fighting is under way on both banks of the Somme. There was heavy bombardment east of Arras this morning, and an attack is developing. Astride the Somme yesterday evening and last night there was severe fighting and also north of Albert and Puyelle.

Au Mont-Hamel is 6 miles north of Albert on the west bank of the Ancre. Puyelleux is 3 miles north of Au-Mont-Hamel, and Noyonville is 5 miles due south of Arras and about 20 miles northeast of Albert.

MONTEDIDIER

Paris, March 28.—Abandonment of Montedidier was officially admitted by the French war office today. In the reign of Montedidier important German attacks were launched. After the bitter fighting we retired in order to west of Montedidier.

GOOD ADVICE

"We hear that a trio of 'sleek gentlemen' are in an adjoining town engaged in the sale of stocks from which you may select copper stock, gold stock and zinc and any other 'get rich quick' variety the purchaser may desire. They are sure to come to Clearfield and surely if they have a list of past forgeries made by Clearfield people in their visionary and real stocks. The business at best is a risky thing, but above all are the stocks sold on these properties with fake titles and nothing to give in return for the glittering stock certificate made to you. Beware of traveling wolves, if you have easy money put it into thrift bonds or Liberty Bonds rather than speculating it for that which you see feel not nor smell not. Remember the wind blows where it listeth, and you hear the sound thereof but cannot tell whether it cometh or whether it goeth."—Raftsmen Journal.

PRESENTATION AT JUNIOR HIGH

At 1:30 yesterday afternoon there was a presentation of prizes to pupils who had entered the Essay Contest given by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.
Rev. Baker, of the Lutheran church gave the presentation in a short but pointed address, calling the attention of the students to the fact that while the Red Cross seems to hold the place of honor at present, yet the place of honor has been held for more than 40 years by the W. C. T. U. In these 40 years of their existence, they have saved thousands of lives, and through the use of liquor have saved thousands of families, and through the large amount of good accomplished by the Temperance workers. At this time they do judge, however, but are apologized to.
First prize, $25.00, was awarded to Miss Hilma Connelly.

FEEDING THE BABY CHICK

Poor methods of feeding and management are responsible annually for great losses in raising baby chicks. It is a well known fact that the baby chick just prior to breaking the shell absorbs the yolk of the egg. This is food in itself and is nature's way of supplying the first food for the chick. Hence it is important that no material of any kind be given the chick until it is at least forty-eight hours and better sixty hours old, suggests the Pennsylvania State College.
The first food may consist of powdered grit, charcoal, water, and milk in some form. Buttermilk, sweet milk and sour milk are equally good but great care should be taken to feed the same form throughout the rearing period. Beginning with the next day, the following grain ration may be fed four or five times, daily until the chicks are two weeks old. This scratch grain ration may consist of seventy pounds of fine cracked corn, twenty pounds steel cut oats, and ten pounds cracked wheat.
The chicks should be fed what they will eat in ten minutes at each feeding of the above mixture. Wheat bran may also be fed in a dry form. After the chicks reach two weeks of age, the following dry mash may be substituted for the wheat bran and fed until the chicks are eight weeks of age: 300 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds gluten, and 100 pounds beef scrap.
The scratch grain ration given above should be fed the chicks three or four times daily from the second to the eighth week when they are ready for a coarser feed.
Green food in some form should be fed. This may consist of sprouted oats, alfalfa or clover leaves previously soaked in cold water. Plenty of clean water should be available at all times as well as grit and charcoal.

UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE WORLD MARVEL

Necessity For Such An Organization Cause! By Spys Sent Here From Germany

QUICKLY MADE EFFICIENT

Washington, D. C., March 22.—When the history of American participation in the great war comes to be written, some of the most interesting chapters will be those devoted to an account of the development of the United States Secret Service and its work in ferreting out those who would give Uncle Sam a stab in the back.

Intrigue and espionage have ever been revolting to the sentiment of the United States. In the entire history of the nation's diplomacy the aim of the Government has been to deal straightforwardly with all other governments. From Benjamin Franklin down to James W. Garfield, through times of war as well as of peace, the policy of the United States, in her relations with all other powers, has been stamped by frankness and sincerity. It would be impossible to imagine any one of the long lines of American diplomats descending to the methods of espionage and propaganda, even to the encouragement of actual acts of violence and destruction, that have been pursued by the diplomatic representatives of Germany.

The United States Government has never made a specialty of detective work of any kind. Whatever has been done along that line has been simply incidental. So little use had the United States found for a secret service, during the first seventy-five years of her history that when it was deemed necessary to throw protection about Abraham Lincoln on his journey from Springfield, Ill., to Washington for his first inauguration, a private detective had to be assigned to the task. With the beginning of the civil war, however, Edwin L. Stanton, the secretary of war, organized a Federal detective force that was soon rendered a factory service to the Government. After the civil war, the so-called secret service became a post office inspection department, to be extended later into a bureau of the Treasury Department, for the hunting down of smugglers, counterfeiters or moonshiners.

Nevertheless from the beginning of the great European conflict in 1914 the United States Secret Service has been alert to every move of international importance, especially to every move of consequence to its own Government. Nothing was more carefully or more persistently cultivated, in the early months of the war, as proof of Germany's marvelous efficiency, than the operations of her spy system.

It was known that for years prior to the war with Austria, Prussia had been building up a system of espionage that was to find its first large expression in the honeycombing of France with intrigue during the reign of Napoleon III. It was known that, with the triumph of 1870, Germany had entered with still greater energy into the development of her spy system, until she had representatives in every section of England and France, until restaurant and hotel waiters, school teachers, college professors, shop keepers, barbers, domestic servants, people bearing German names in almost every calling were, first of all, agents of the Berlin secret system. Germany had planted spies along the prospective routes of her armies for years before the time seemed opportune for striking the blow. There was, apparently, no place where the German spy was not in 1914-15, and the world was asked, by the admirers of German efficiency, to stand at respectful attention and be properly amazed.

But there are persons in Washington today in a position to know that on the whole, German espionage has been characterized by clumsiness and stupidity. Its operations have been detected, exposed, and rendered ridiculous by the secret service of a country that has never had any particular respect for espionage, and that has less respect than ever for it today. There is not believed to be a single instance, in which the protective secret service of the United States has been called on to contend with the aggressive German espionage system, where the latter has not been defeated in its purpose.

In the rural parts of Schleswig-Holstein they speak of a place as being a pipe, or two pipes or three pipes distant, according to the number of pipes one could smoke while walking there.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE
BY MARY GRAMHAM BOWEN

PINE TREES.

"The cone-bearing trees belong to the great Evergreen family," said Daddy. "And in this family are so many of the trees we know so well, the pines, hemlocks, firs, spruces, as well as a number of others we aren't so familiar with, such as the cedars and the cypresses."

"Or all the trees in the world," whispered the pine tree one cold night, not long ago, "we feel sure we are the happiest."

"That's a nice way to feel," said Mr. Moon, "but tell me why you feel that way. I would be more interested in knowing."

"We will tell you," said the pine trees. And Mr. Moon got right behind them, so he wouldn't miss a thing they said.

"We are useful," they began. "We are used in great yards where there are ships."

"Oh, shipyards," said Mr. Moon, blinking wisely. "Yes, indeed, I know all about shipyards. Many is the time I have looked down upon the ships being repaired, or mended. I have looked into the big ships, too. They are wonderful!"

"Mr. Moon beamed as he thought of them. 'I am glad to hear you are used in shipyards,' said Mr. Moon. 'Tell me more about it.'"

"From us people can obtain oil, turpentine and other useful things—pitch, too."

"No wonder you are happy," said Mr. Moon.

"But more than that makes us happy," said the pine trees.

"Do tell me all about the things that make you so happy," asked Mr. Moon.

"Folks say we're handsome. And that pleases us. We want to be admired. It's natural, isn't it?"

"Quite," said Mr. Moon. "I love to be admired myself. I like to have folks like me when I'm round, or only half-sized, or of a crescent shape."

"That makes us feel better to hear that you like to be admired too. Sometimes we fear we may become vain, and that wouldn't be nice at all. No one would love us then."

"And the pine trees sighed at the very thought—great, long sighs. 'Cheer up,' said Mr. Moon. 'You will never become vain.'"

"The pine trees sang a little now. 'It makes us happy, too,' they said, 'because we can give pleasure all the year around. It's not just in the spring and in the summer that we are green—we are evergreen—the evergreen family.'"

"To be sure it's nice to bud and burst into pale green leaves, then to become stronger and darker, and later on, when autumn comes, to have wonderful changing colors of red and orange, yellow, golden, flame and all the rest."

"We can understand how these trees can all be very happy. But we think we're the luckiest of all. We are green all the year—the all the year."

"We're popular all over the world, too, and we will grow almost anywhere. We like some climates better than others, but we try to get along in any, and make ourselves get used to different places."

"We really don't like big cities, where there are factories which blow their smoke over us. But that's about all we really object to."

"Not much," said Mr. Moon. "You're pretty pleasant and contented I think."

"The trees bowed politely as Mr. Moon said this, and sang him this little song:

"We will sing you a tune, Kind friend, Mr. Moon. We'll bow and we'll dance, And if you get the chance, Will you try hard to think That we want you to wink, When all this is over, And to ask us for more. We just love so to sing, For we like everything. But the best thing we know, Is that we're green when there's snow!"

"And all night long Mr. Moon listened to the singing of the pine trees, the happiest trees in the world. And old King Snow listened too, for, he said, 'They're the trees that even like me.'"

On Top of Things.
Some people are like buoys. They always manage to stay on top of things. The waves roll in and over them, but the next thing we see, they are on the crest of the wave. Temptations, trials, discouragements enough to submerge ordinary natures, only lift them higher.

CHIEF PACIFIST FORD IS NOW BUSY MAN TURNING OUT IMPLEMENTS OF WAR

Former Chief Pacifist Henry Ford has developed into one of the War God's most energetic helpers and is getting ready to turn out in real old-fashioned Ford style a couple of instruments which bid fair to be big factors in winning the war for democracy. The first and most-talked of Ford product is the U-Boat chaser, named by Secretary Daniels "The Eagle."

The Eagle is one of two particular fighting devices which are so engrossing Mr. Ford's attention at present that he is working harder and putting in longer hours than any of the 10,000 employees of his concern.

Have U-Boat Detectors
Without going too deeply into details as to the construction of these boats, it is permissible to say that they are 200 feet long, 25-1-2 feet wide, draw eight feet of water, carry submarine detectors that can spot the enemy's U-boats more than a mile away, have devices for dropping depth bombs and are expected to do great execution.

Yet they are to be turned out (big as they are) in the same standardized, systematized fashion as the little pleasure cars which made Mr. Ford's name known throughout the world. He has described one of the buildings along the Rouge river, at Detroit, where the Eagles are now under construction.

"This is 300 feet wide and 1,800 feet long," Mr. Ford said. "It has three sets of rails, along which the Eagles progress from the beginning of their assembling until they are complete. At the end of the tracks they take to the water, and by that time they are a finished product, fully equipped, armed and supplied—and with their crews aboard."

"It would be possible for an Eagle to leave this building, go through the Rouge River, the Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence, and right across the sea into action, without a halt."

There is a naval cantonment capable of housing 2,000 men at a time adjoining this destroyer plant, which will supply crews as needed, and these crews will be composed of men who have seen the whole operation of building the Eagle and who will know every detail of its construction.

Already a completed Eagle stands in the Detroit shop, finished, even to her wireless masts. She is a model, to give the workmen an idea of what they are building. She should take the water now. But it will be only a brief number of weeks before a steady over-ocean stream of Eagles heads for Europe.

"We have orders for 100 of these boats, but we're prepared to build 1,000 if they are needed," Mr. Ford said. "Construction will go on at Rouge River until the weather is too cold next fall, and by that time the plant in the Jersey meadows will be in operation."

The Two-Man Tank
Mr. Ford's other pet war machine is the "two-man tank." This is not his own idea he wants it understood. It was the conception of army men, just as the Eagle was the outgrowth of navy ideas. But he has built one of the small tanks for experimental purposes and he knows what it will do.

"The simplest thing possible!" he says enthusiastically. "It's merely a little affair of sheet steel, armored, plated, with two or our ordinary 20-horsepower motors, driving truck worm-gears, with caterpillar traction. "These little tanks could turn with in their own length, could dart here and there along the fighting line almost as fast as an unprotected soldier. One man could handle the machine, the other fellow man the guns. I have arranged for a permanent supply of chemicals within the tank for a protection against gas should the enemy employ that, and the little tanks, therefore, could go anywhere."

"Suppose they did strike a party, or two of them in there, and the others over top of them. Suppose 50-horsepower. I think those little tanks could climb any French side, almost to the perpendicular."

"I don't believe they'd cost more than $1,500 apiece, and they'd save the lives of thousands of soldiers. The British have said their big tanks were each equal to 500 men. Each little tank, I believe, would be equal of 150 soldiers. To fight with machines and save lives is the proper modern system of warfare, in my opinion."

So far as Mr. Ford knows, there has not yet been any provision made in the American army's fighting scheme for these tiny tanks. But if they should be wanted he'd like nothing better than the job of turning them out. And they could be produced almost as rapidly as pleasure cars, he thinks.

LETTERS FROM OUR SOLDIER BOYS

Mr. and Mrs. B. Harris of Ogden avenue have received the following letter from their son "somewhere in France."

Feb. 15, 1918,
Somewhere in France.

Dear Parents:

This is to let you know that I received your kind and welcome letter and was very glad to hear that you are all well. As I was away from my company for a few days I was a little delayed in answering. I am in the best of health.

I have only received one of the four parcels you sent me but I think the others will arrive before long.

Is Abe in the infantry or artillery? I hope he come to France and if he does I will surely look him up.

The weather over here is splendid and I hope it keeps up. How is the weather around home? I suppose it is as cold as usual at this time of the year.

Well that's about all I have to write at present so I'll close with regards to everyone.

GET INQUIRY ABOUT GEORGE DERRICK

Chief Clerk John M. Bain of the local Exemption board received a letter of inquiry from Fred W. Tepel chief of police of Williamsport, regarding one George Derrick aged 25 years, who was arrested at Williamsport charged with making seditious and un-American remarks.

Derrick, when taken to the police station, said his home was on Spruce street, Clearfield, that he had torn up his questionnaire when sent him and wouldn't respond to any order sent him.

Chief Tepel said Derrick had a still leg which he said was caused by being run over by a horse truck in Clearfield.

An examination of the Exemption Board's records show that Derrick was examined here last month and has been accepted for military service and this information was sent to the Williamsport Chief of Police.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

OWED BOY SCOUTS A DEBT

A boy scout courteously asked a woman worker in a Kansas City, Mo., office if she would buy a Liberty bond. "I have already bought about as many as I can afford," said she. "Still, you are the first boy scout who has asked me to buy, and I owe something to the boy scouts."

"Would you mind telling me why you say that?" asked the boy. "I would like to tell my scoutmaster." "Three years ago," said the woman, "I didn't have a regular job, and neither did my husband. I used to go to the market Saturday nights to take advantage of the reduced prices in vegetables. One night I bought a good many and was struggling under the load when a boy in khaki uniform insisted on taking the heavier bundles. 'This is our work, you know,' he said proudly to me."

"I could only thank him, but I never forgot," said the woman, "and today I feel I must buy one more bond to help save America for such citizens as these boy scouts are going to be."

MORE EAGLE SCOUTS IN TEXAS.

San Antonio now has four Eagle scouts, and this noteworthy achievement was reached when the court of honor completed tests that qualified three scouts as Eagle scouts.

Lewis Kayton, who is in the first Eagle scout in San Antonio, was presented with his badge in the summer. The three new Eagle scouts are Charles Henning, Zay Smith and Sel, don Nye.

The court of honor compels each test to be thorough in every way, and it has taken weeks and months of hard work for the scouts to attain this honor.

In order to get the Eagle badge, a scout must take 21 merit badge examinations and several of these take months of preparation. The Eagle scouts won these honors only by the hardest work and by deep study and practice.

SCOUTS ASK FLAG RESPECT.

The San Francisco Ad club, with the co-operation of the San Francisco Boy Scouts of America, has launched a movement to make expressions of respect to the American flag more general in that city, particularly on public occasions.

According to President Samuel P. Johnson of the club, some men fail to remove their hats when the flag passes in a public parade.

Asked by the club for assistance, the boy scouts promised to conduct a campaign to ask men to doff their hats when the national banner passes. At the next parade to be held in that city the boy scouts are to march in advance, distributing cards asking men to do this reverence to the flag.

GOOD TURNS BY SCOUTS.

A Cory, Pa., scout, named Harold MacLusens, saved the life of a little boy who had severed a large artery. Scouts in McBain, Mich., gave first aid in a gasoline explosion when two men were badly injured and no physician was to be had.

Boy scouts in Buffalo are proud of one patrol that is expert in signaling. The patrol is equipped with electric and oil flash lanterns, field buzzers, telegraph instruments, flags, etc.

MODERN PROBLEMS CLUB MEETING

The Modern Problems club held a meeting in the history room of the high school building Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The minutes of the last meeting were read after which the president introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Frank G. Harris.

Mr. Harris opened his address by congratulating the club on having our educational facilities and told us he would tell us of the "Underground Railroads."

First we had explained to us the reason for underground railroads. The fact that the traffic in the large cities became so congested that it was not safe; some means had to be found to correct this trouble and so underground railroads were built in the large cities of Boston, New York, Baltimore, Paris and many others.

Mr. Harris divided the railroads into three divisions:

1. Subways.
2. Tunnels.
3. Under the river road.

For example New York was taken. Six parts of Broadway there are five railroads, one on top of the other. The Pennsylvania railroad has a line that runs under New York city up to Boston. This is a great convenience for it saves having to be ferried across the rivers and changing cars at New York. Some rivers however, cannot have either underground roads or bridges; the Mississippi for example, because the ground at the banks and on the bottom of the river is so soft it cannot support the works.

Tunnels we are told are as old as history. The ancient Egyptians had them thru the ground to the burial places of their Pharaohs. Some of the larger tunnels of modern times are at Cleveland, Chicago, Pittsburgh and several very wonderful ones in Europe. Compressed air is used in these tunnels and snow sheds to protect the roads from the land slides.

After telling us these interesting facts with many more we could not mention, Mr. Harris closed his talk, which was one of the most interesting addresses given to the club this winter.

The club wishes to thank Mr. Harris for his time and interest and we hope he comes to see us soon again.

HELVETIA STORE IS ROBBED ON TUESDAY NIGHT

The Mahoning Supply company store, Helvetia, sustained a large loss as the result of a robbery on Tuesday night, when thieves entered the store and made off with merchandise to the amount of over $500. Entrance to the building was made with the aid of a step ladder, through a second story window. The list of goods taken includes knives, cigars, razors, watches, shoes and clothing. There was no cash taken, the safe being locked, and the thieves were unable to open it. In taking inventory yesterday it was found that merchandise to the extent of over $500 had been taken. This makes the second robbery that this firm has suffered within the last two years.

FAIR PROPORTION WHEAT FOUR SUBSTITUTES PLANNED

Baking Regulations Effective April 14 Will Require 25 Per Cent Addition
Under the short supply of wheat, the Food Administration has planned four substitutes for wheat bread, the present proportion of wheat flour substitutes required in bread and rolls is to be increased. New baking regulations will require the use of at least 25 per cent of substitutes with wheat flour in commercial bread baking will go into effect April 14, the Food Administration announces, with a possibility that a still greater percentage of substitutes may be required later. All bread and rolls now manufactured contain at least 20 per cent of wheat substitutes. This percentage was attained by gradual stages, finally becoming imperative on February 24. The time that will elapse before the new rate of substitution becomes effective will enable bakers to make the necessary experiments and work out new formulas and methods for producing victor bread.
